Tod's to help restore one of Rome's treasures

Tod's, the Italian maker of luxury leather goods, is financing the restoration of the Coliseum in Rome, in collaboration with the Italian government. The monument, a colossal part of Rome's archaeological heritage, attracts over five million visitors a year. The project aims to strengthen and restore sections of the Coliseum, as well as improve amenities for tourists.

Jewelmer celebrates Fête de la Femme

Jewelmer, creator of fine South Sea pearl jewelry pieces, hosted a high tea event titled "Fête de la Femme" (Celebrating the Woman) on May 25 at the Salon de Ning of The Peninsula Manila. The event launched Jewelmer's Recordi Preziosi (Precious Memories) and Tutti Frutti collections. The Effloro and Margherita collections were featured in the event as well. All collections use precious and semi-precious colored stones, such as sapphires, rhodolite, gold dust, and garnets, to accentuate the lustrous glow of the South Sea pearl.

The guest list included Jewelmer's VIP clients, as well as members of the press. The event was hosted by Tessa Prieto-Valdes, who introduced Jewelmer's colorful new collections through a fashion show. Internationally accredited artist Patrick Alcobor of Shu Uemura demonstrated in a workshop how the right colors light up the face. A photo booth allowed guests to create their own special memories of the fête.

The Recordi Preziosi, Tutti Frutti, Effloro, and Margherita collections are available at Jewelmer showrooms in major malls and hotels around Metro Manila.
